Trivia

Tyra is listed as and clearly visible as a pangare; a coat trait that can result in pale hair on the underside of the body, legs and around the muzzle. It can occasionally extend to the flanks, chest, in front of the stifle and behind the elbows. They are one of two in-game coats showcasing the stunning marking, alongside the far more subtle Chestnut Skewald Pangare (Primrose).

Originally in planning and on the official SWEM coat document, Tyra was noted as an 'early bay'. This term was coloquially used to reference the similarities in appearance to primitive wild equine sub-species such as Przewalski's horses, which have striking dun coats with pangare features.
